Entrepreneur Monika Machej is Committed to Helping Graduates Be Debt-Free

Machej, the Founder of New Age Spa Institute, Has Helped Hundreds of People Launch Their Careers

LOS ANGELES, CA / ACCESSWIRE / October 2, 2017 / As the founder of The New Age Spa Institute, Monika Machej is pleased to announce that she has helped hundreds of students launch their careers or start businesses being debt-free.

Monika Machej's motivation is more than just business. She is a female entrepreneur and also a Polish immigrant. Being a woman and an immigrant gives her the passion to give back and empower other women to start their own careers and even start their entrepreneurial journey.

In creating The New Age Spa Institute over 10 years ago, Monika's goal was to provide a place with high standards in education. This led her to pursuing accreditation from the international program of CIDESCO. The New Age Spa Institute is the only school in the state of Illinois fully accredited by CIDESCO that teaches to the highest standards and has a start-of-the-art facility, providing education for Esthetics, Accelerated Aesthetics for Medical Setting, Makeup Artists, Nail Technicians and Massage Therapists.

The New Age Spa Institute is an affordable alternative to a 4-year University. In many cases, a spokesperson noted, NASI costs less than 10 percent of a 4-year education and depending on each graduate's level of ambition, many can earn substantially more after graduating NASI than the average graduate of a traditional 4-year University. As the spokesperson noted, statistics show that the average 2016 college graduate has more than $35,000 in college debt, and according to CNBC, women carry more student debt than men.

Machej, who is widely considered to be an expert, top authority and nationwide trainer in the skin care and beauty training industry, said it is more important than ever for women to know about the training options that are offered. Her goal is to continue to assist women to obtain as many options as they desire to become successful in the industry and life.

"Coaching, Learning and Mentoring is what we deliver to our students," Machej says.

Going through the struggles of being a female immigrant trying to start a career and then become an entrepreneur has given Monika Machej the insight to "Help women and men train for great jobs, or even start their own business. Our curriculum focuses on technical skill, as well as business and marketing skills to build your own brand. We love the work we do here, and we love when students come back to thank us and tell us their success stories."
